TO WHOM THIS MAY CONCERN

Our Federation has been informed that the process of cremation is currently under some discussion in your country. We would like to point out that the International Cremation Federation over the years has advised many countries in the world, concerning the different aspects of cremation.

The freedom of choice between traditional burial and cremation is seen within the global community of the United Nations and certainly within the European Union, as a fundamental human right. Any measure hindering this right would be looked upon as a serious violation of an important liberty by the European Union.

We would also like to mention here that the Romanian Cremation Association has our full support in their continues efforts for the cremation movement in Romania.

On behalf of the Executive Committee,

Henry J. Keizer,
Secretary General
